

Promoting excellence in the education of health professionals

DUKE AHEAD PRESENTS:

Teaching in the Presence of Patients: An Interprofessional Perspective

April 27, 2016
3:30 – 5:00 pm
DUSON 1011

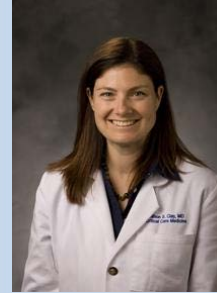

This session is geared toward faculty and clinical staff who teach at the bedside

-
- What can we learn from each other as educators?
 - How do others teach in the presence of patients?
 - Help us create 5 tips for teaching in the presence of patients.
-

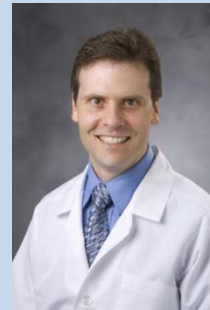

Session Objectives:

- Reflect upon teaching practices in your own profession that occur in the patient's presence
- Discuss similarities and differences in how each profession teaches in the presence of patients
- Describe five best teaching practices that can be universally adapted across professions.

Facilitators:

Alison Clay, MD
Assistant Professor of Surgery
Assistant Professor of Medicine
Division of Critical Care
Duke University School of Medicine

Larry Greenblatt, MD
Associate Professor of Medicine
Associate Professor, Department of Community & Family
Medicine

With Additional Discussants:

Patrick Hemming, MD, MPH
Remi Hueckel, DNP, CPNP-AC
Quincy Jones, MSW, LCSW, MHS, PA-C
Corrie Odom, PT, DPT, LAT
Iris Padilla, PhD, FNP-BC
Bruce Peyser, MD
Beth Phillips, PhD, RN, CNE
Kathleen Turner, DNP, RN
Mamata Yanamadala, MBBS

Duke AHEAD
Academy for Health Professions Education and Academic Development

TO REGISTER: Email dukeahead@dm.duke.edu