The Duke University School of Nursing (DUSON) invites applications from doctorally prepared candidates for a full-time faculty position with primary teaching responsibilities within the School’s Master of Science in Nursing and Doctorate of Nursing Practice programs. The individual selected for this position will fulfill a significant role in our MSN Leadership and Health Systems specialty area and will make substantive contributions to the overall development of leadership and management expertise throughout our academic programs. Well qualified applicants will be clinically experienced, demonstrate a commitment to teaching and practice, and be an experienced nursing leader. Candidates will have executive level nursing and health system leadership and management experience in the delivery of nursing services within the past five years. Senior executive level responsibility for the practice of nursing within a complex health care organization and/or system, including financial and human resource management is expected. Experience teaching at the graduate level is preferred. Candidates will also show evidence of a program of scholarship. Candidates must be eligible for licensure as a registered nurse in North Carolina. Faculty appointment for this position will be made at the Assistant, Associate or Full Professor level on Track II (a non-tenure earning practice/clinical track), depending on the candidate’s qualifications.

The Duke Nursing community includes 86 full-time faculty members, over 120 staff members and approximately 1,000 students. The School offers four degree programs: ABSN, MSN, DNP and PhD. More information on the School and the programs can be found at nursing.duke.edu. Duke University offers an unusually rich, interdisciplinary environment conducive to teaching, practice, and research across the undergraduate, graduate, and professional schools (Nursing, Medicine, Divinity, Business, Law, Engineering, Environment and Policy) and various sponsored institutes. Duke is rated by its employees as one of the best places to work in the Triangle area and offers a competitive salary and benefits package, and the Duke University School of Nursing was ranked #6 in the most recent U.S. News and World Report rankings of graduate nursing programs and #9 among Schools of Nursing receiving NIH funding in 2015.

Applications are due by May 1, 2016; position will remain open until filled. Interested individuals should email a curriculum vitae and cover letter detailing their specific leadership/management, teaching and clinical experience, areas of scholarship and service, and commitment to diversity with this opportunity, along with the names and contact information for three references to Duke University School of Nursing, Attn: Director, Faculty Affairs, to sonfacul@dm.duke.edu. Individuals from under-represented groups are encouraged to apply.

Duke University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual’s age, color, disability, genetic information, gender, gender identity, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, or veteran status.