

Nurse-LEADS

Training in nurse-led models of care addressing the social determinants of health

Postdoctoral Research Fellow Position: Fall 2024

The Duke University School of Nursing invites applicants for a postdoctoral research fellow position in our newly launched NIH-funded T32 program.

Nurse-LEADS aims to offer innovative training to nurse scientists at the intersection of health equity, social determinants of health (SDOH), and nurse-led models of care.

Trainees will also develop skills in digital health, advanced analytics, engagement science, and multisector partnerships as methodological approaches and tools for promoting health equity.

Nurse LEADS builds upon a partnership with North Carolina Central University (NCCU) and the University of Texas at El Paso (UTEP).

Support is provided for up to two years to:

- Take 3 Nurse-LEADS elective courses
- Participate in monthly seminars
- Work with mentors on research projects
- Collaborate on manuscripts
- Conduct a pilot study
- Present at conferences
- Mentor predoctoral trainees
- Prepare an NIH or equivalent grant application
- And more!

Application Due: July 15th, 2024

Start Date: August 19th, 2024

Qualifications:

- RN or advance practice nurse with research doctorate within 5 years of graduation
- U.S. citizen or permanent resident only
- Commitment to becoming an independent scientist
- We strongly encourage applications from candidates from underrepresented and historically marginalized groups

Duke University School of Nursing offers:

- A diverse community of scholars and clinicians educating the next generation of transformational leaders in nursing
- Opportunity to learn and conduct research at a U.S. News & World Report top ranked University, School of Nursing, and Health System.
- NIH level salary, health insurance, childcare cost support
- Hybrid appointments available
- Resources for research funding and career advancement
- Individual office in a state-of-the-art building
- Mentoring and regular feedback from diverse faculty
- Center for Nursing Research to support grant submissions and awards

For applications scan or click here!

For more information, contact:

Dr. Rosa Gonzalez-Guarda
rosa.gonzalez-guarda@duke.edu

Dr. Ryan Shaw
ryan.shaw@duke.edu

Duke University
School of Nursing