Below you will find examples of how to record references in Chicago Manual of Style, which is mostly used in book publishing, but occasionally in some journals. Just pull up this guide and keep it on your screen for a quick comparison. No memorizing rules!

Book

One author

Two or more authors

Editor, translator, or compiler instead of author

Editor, translator, or compiler in addition to author

Chapter/ part of a book

Chapter of an edited volume originally published elsewhere

Preface, foreword, introduction, or similar part of a book

Book published electronically
Cite the version you consulted. You can include a section title or a chapter or other number in lieu of a page range.

Journal article

Article in an online journal
If no DOI is available, list a URL.

Article in a newspaper or popular magazine

Book review

Thesis or dissertation

Paper presented at a meeting or conference

Website

Blog entry or comment

Item in a commercial database
