

ABOUT NCCU NURSING

North Carolina Central University's Department of Nursing actively pursues excellence in nursing through education, research and service. The Department of Nursing has prepared nurses to contribute to the ever-developing nursing profession since 1948, when it began educating public health nurses. Today, we engage in the preparation of men and women as nursing leaders in our community, our state, nation, and around the world.

We are proud to offer the following options: traditional BSN, accelerated BSN for second degree students, VBSN for veteran students and online RN to BSN.

North Carolina Central University is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools to award baccalaureate, master's, education specialist and doctoral degrees. Contact the Commission on Colleges at 1866 Southern Lane, Decatur, Ga. 30033-4097 or call 404-679-4500 for questions about the accreditation of North Carolina Central University.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER DR. JENNIE DE GAGNE

Dr. Jennie De Gagne is an associate professor in the Duke University School of Nursing. De Gagne studied nursing at Ewha Womans University in South Korea and holds master's degrees in health psychology and nursing education. She received her Ph.D. from Northcentral University and a post-graduate certificate in health informatics and a Doctor of Nursing Practice from Duke University.

Dr. De Gagne has made substantial contributions to the education of nurses and faculty in multiple countries as an expert in the field of educational technology. Connecting discovery with implementation, her work has positively affected the quality of life for health consumers, particularly in communities with scarce resources.

De Gagne's studies in cybercivility among students, faculty and professionals in the health professions field examines ways to foster civil and safe learning environments in which all members of the community are treated with kindness and respect.

De Gagne has contributed to more than 100 publications, including books, chapters, reports and journal articles, and has presented more than 80 times at national and international conferences. She is the founder and executive advisor of the North Carolina Korean Nurses Association, sits as an editorial board member for Athens Journal of Health and serves as global ambassador and abstract reviewer for the Sigma Theta Tau International Honor Society of Nursing.

In May 2017, she was awarded the Duke University School of Nursing Distinguished Teaching Award and appointed as the Inaugural Fellow for the Duke Academy for Health Professions Education and Academic Development. She is a fellow of National League for Nursing Academy of Nursing Education and the American Academy of Nursing.
