

Join us at the Master of Science in Population Health Sciences

OPEN HOUSE

- Meet our world-renowned faculty
- Learn how you can tailor this degree to meet your professional objectives
- Explore financial aid options
- Discover how this program will give your career traction in the fast-growing health care sector

Employers are looking to hire people with a “toolbox” to solve real-world health care problems. The Master of Science in Population Health Sciences teaches you to use data to answer the most pressing health care questions and implement solutions.

When: January 23, 5 - 7 PM

Where: The Imperial Building
215 Morris St. Suite 210
Durham, NC

Register: populationhealth.duke.edu/openhouse

Questions?
sarah.t.miller@duke.edu
populationhealth.duke.edu/masters-program

Now recruiting for the Fall 2019
inaugural class.

Department of Population Health Sciences
Duke University School of Medicine

Population Health | Education
Master's Program • PhD Program